There is little doubt that a good photo doesn't just happen. At various stages all of us has had to endure slide shows or photo albums taken by friends or family showing off their children or their vacation or some such event. Usually these are groan making. One's own kids prancing about are cute, other people's kids may be cute but no one really wants to wade through pages of amateur photo albums of someone else's little Audrey playing in a pool or little Johnny kicking a soccer ball.

Many Facebook photos that are posted by your "friends" are similarly amateurish and may mean a lot to the poster but, as most Facebook "friends" are at best mere acquaintances most of whom you will never meet, seeing them "tagged" in a photo does not have a great deal of significance.

And so it is with photographs taken of events. Good pics do not just happen, they have to be planned using great equipment and good light. The cameraman must know what he is doing and should be well experienced and successful.

And the difference is palpable. An amateur photographer using a "point and squirt" type camera may produce a record but rarely is it going to produce a masterpiece to be displayed time and time again and be proud of. But a professional who has successfully been shooting weddings for many years should be able to produce something special.

So it is with a Wedding photographer in Manchester, who has become immensely popular amongst the many brides he has photographed. Operating in Manchester and surrounding areas as well as Yorkshire this photographer is a specialist at producing wonderful wedding albums with the minimum of intrusiveness.

If one is planning a wedding and wishes everything to be perfect there is a massive amount of preparation that has to be managed. But all of the background stuff is forgotten and no one will notice it on the day, unless it is poorly done. But there are two aspects that one wants to be absolutely certain about.

And one of them is the photographer. This is a record of the happy event which will be with you forever and which your children will be shown. One really does not want to risk leaving that to amateurs so the bride is out of focus and off centre or the pics lack that something special. No, one wants high quality clear shots that will be an everlasting reminder of the special day..

And this is what you can be assured of if you use the Wedding photography in Manchester. Renowned for being friendly, happily gregarious and will produced a wonderful wedding Album for you. He uses very high quality Nikon cameras and His packages are great value and he is ready to be briefed and then will be with the Bride from 2 hours before the ceremony, through the formalities until just after the first dance. You will get an agreed ratio of Posed and natural shots which give the Album that something special.

In addition he surrenders the copyright on the pictures so they are yours to do with as you like.
