How a booming economy can benefit from commercial storage by Harry Ben

The year 1958 brought about various changes in Abu Dhabi's economy. The discovery of oil led to an economic boom which gave rise to a number of home grown industries; all of which were non-existent prior to the "oil economy".

What this also brought about, was new jobs which were fuelled by multi-national corporations who set foot in Abu Dhabi, dragging in into the modern era. The discovery of oil funded a lot of other projects which put Abu Dhabi on the global map.

With the influx of new corporations, immigrants also moved in to fill the voids created by the newly formed corporations. Real-estate in Abu Dhabi was next up, growing while catering to the growing number of immigrants that now served the newly developed corporations. Local businesses got a big boost which is why a number of services which were offered in the west, also had to be offered out here.

Today the real-estate market in Abu Dhabi is at an all time high. The number of new settlers keeps on increasing along with the rentals which keep on fluctuating. Businesses now needed all the space they could get in a market crowded by competitors, and offer better facilities and services to their customers. To get more space out of an existing business and to cater to more customers, a business would need to cut off the storage space. Cutting off storage is not an easy task since most businesses often need 24 hour access to their goods and raw materials. More importantly businesses need a safe and secure place to store their commercial goods and protect them from the arid climate that Abu Dhabi is known for.

This is where commercial storage comes to the rescue. The Box a moving and storage company in Abu Dhabi is where businesses in Abu Dhabi often go to. They provide a wide variety of services all focussed on the customer; meaning that the customer benefits the most from them.
