Being a parent is no doubt one of the most wonderful and beautiful things but at the same time there are lot of responsibilities also that parents need to take care of their kids. Safety and security are one such issue and while you are moving in car with your kid it should be your prime concern. Thanks to kiddy car seats that ensure the right level of safety for your kids while they are on car.

However, one must remember that safety of kiddy car seats are also related to how skillfully they are installed in your car. Whether you are running down the street or driving the car to enjoy your vacation it is very important to ensure that your baby is strapped securely to the car and hence the kids car seat must be properly installed in the car.

When installing car seats for kids you must consider these basic points to ensure a safe ride for your baby.

Placement and Position: The position of your kid's car seat is one of the most important thing you should pay attention to. The safest place for kiddy car seat is the back seat of the car. However, if you have van or wagon with several back seats then centre of the middle seat is the best position. If your baby is below 2 years then the best position for baby seat is in rear facing position. This is highly recommended to continue till your baby grows the maximum rear facing leg room allowance. After completing two years, your baby can ride the car facing forward.

Installing, Mounting and Tethering: Most of the motor vehicles and safety seats manufactured after the year 2002 have fully fledged LATCH or Lower Anchors and Tethers for children, a system developed to make the installation of child safety equipment safe and easy. The baby car seat can be attached directly to anchors provided in car to serve the purpose.

Use of harness: After the kiddy car seat sets in position and satisfactorily tight position, put your kid in place and fasten the harness. Make sure that harness straps should be in flat position as well as it must be tight. Make sure that only one finger can be placed between the kid's body and the harness while ensuring that harness is tight.

It is also equally important to ensure that you are buying the right type of car seats for your kids. Other than material and size, you must ensure that your kid will be fully comfortable on it. There are many online websites from where you can buy some of the best branded car seat for the kids.
