Lifestyle Design: Details of a Winning Procedure for Online Web Designers by Emerson Branden

Article published on March 26th 2012 | Business

There are many challenges to any business owner who is planning for a good web presence soon. From planning and creating a web presence to maintaining and updating it, many business owners are researching on effective online business ideas. They are often challenged to deal with budget constraints. Web designers are currently making their online services refined so that they can deal better with these kinds of various business owners.

It is not easy to turn down a US$1500 budget for a web design project because with little money, it can add up to over US$16,000 for a year. You also have to think now about very demanding clients who expect more than their budget could ever afford. Deal with them in the most sincere manner and show them your competencies and boundaries.

Design and write a low-budget web design guide that will contain all the most efficient ways in installing themes, managing settings, communicating with various web hosting providers, and documenting other business requirements. This guide must be customizable to meet client needs and their budget.

This guide will let you know everything you need to accomplish at certain dates. You will not forget anything and you can ensure that errors are eliminated and prevented. Further, it is like a lifestyle design for you because you are able to identify which tasks and steps have been efficient and which have consumed your time. You also proficiently enhance your time and task management skills in delivering quality output.

Develop various website design frameworks that you can choose and tailor for every website type you will be using. Include processes in which you work on pre-built themes and designs. These can lessen build time and ensure that you can conveniently tailor to the brand and content of the client. All you have to do is make sure that you are not violating any licensing agreement when using such themes and you are accurately observing intellectual property rights.

You have to prepare some preventive and cautionary measures so that you will not compromise any financial losses or any wastage of time. To do this, you have to deal honestly with the client. Discuss with your clients what their website will be, by showing them your portfolio of examples according to certain budgets. Thus, discuss what you can accomplish given a certain budget and in turn, they would understand what their budget can have.

Inform your client that you require them to give you a clear list of what they want to have in their website. What functions and features do they want? When they give you a list, discuss it and let them categorize the items in the list. Categories must be based on levels of priorities.

More importantly, decide on a written contract and discuss on the scope and limits of the internet business ideas you both have about website design. This will both keep you out of court and away from any unwanted arguments. With regards to making every meeting and project walkthrough more meaningful, you have to charge each other for any missed meeting. For example, you can charge US$30 for the first missed meeting and US$50 for the next ones. Thus, you can ensure that no time is wasted and every meeting is highly regarded by both parties.
