Put on the Right Steering Wheel Cover by Julia Roger

Article published on May 2nd 2012 | Business

The steering wheel is one of the most important parts of a vehicle. It is one of the first things and foremost thing that catches one's eye while getting into the car, so a steering wheel cover must be chosen with utmost care.

There are many steering wheel covers available amongst which the leather ones are the most popular. They have a fine and luxurious feel about them. They are individually handcrafted from the choicest domestic and tanned especially for this purpose. These are the best option to upgrade and customize any plastic leather steering wheel cover or replace a worn out or damaged original factory wheel cover. There are three options available:

â€¢ These are available in solid colors like black, cobalt blue, sea blue, green, oak, tan, brown, charcoal, grey and many other colors. These are made in standard sizes and can be customized according to the size of the steering as well.

â€¢ Two colored options are also available. There is an array of colors available from which any two colors can be chosen to make the steering wheel cover look unique.

â€¢ The third one is the perforated option where the perforated leather gives a nice textured look to the interiors of the car. Perforations can be done on both single colored and double colored ones.

How to put a steering wheel cover:

Older steering wheel covers can become sticky and faded after years of use and have to be replaced. To get a new one first the diameter of the steering wheel has to be measured with a tape measure. Steering wheel covers have to be purchased according to the diameter size. To put it on, first it has to be placed on the steering wheel. Then pry the backside of the cover over the steering wheel. Work your way around the steering wheel in a clockwise direction till the cover is fixed. Often a flathead screwdriver is being used for this purpose.
