Jaipur: the Pink City of Country by Suhana Tichkule

Article published on December 29th 2011 | Clothing

Jaipur is called as the pink city of India. The reason it is called so because there are many buildings in this city which are colored with pink. The city was founded by Maharaja Sawai Jai Singh II in the year 1727 and now has a population of about 3 million. The city is well known for the various kinds of forts built by the different rulers during their reign. The city has a fort which has one of the largest missiles in the country. Well even to move the face of the missile it requires four elephants because it is very heavy.

The city is also known for its various forms of artwork or the architecture in the different periods of time. The rulers of this part of the country were intelligent enough to understand the danger which was occurring in the whole of India. The Rajputs were fighting with each other to find the right kind of land and at this time the rulers of Jaipur were busy in maintaining and making new relationships with the Mughals. Thus the architectural work gives the glimpse of both the Mughals and the Rajputs. The various monuments have beautifully designed and carved buildings by the Mughals and the vast and strong forts by the Rajputs.

Besides this there are various kinds of markets which sell different kinds of products. One of the famous products is the sandals which are called as "chappals". The famous sandals are the "Handmade chappals" which are loved by many. The city has variety of temples and gardens which must definitely be looked at. There is variety of cuisines and one of the famous places which have all the attractions of the city is "Chowki Dhani". This place has all the cultures and different kinds of art form on display of the city and mainly the Rajasthani culture.

So if anyone is thinking or deciding upon visiting this place, then he or she must look for the various kinds of deals or packages available on the internet. Also if someone wants to buy a particular product or want to stay in different hotels or want to try out different types of cuisines or want to play some sport then they can look up on the internet for various Jaipur deals. One can easily find some interesting and cheap deals on the internet with ease and thus save time.
