Jail breaking is a technique that is used to change the permissions on your iPhone in such a way that it will have the proper follow up which is usually needed while installing any new game or application on the iPhone.

Remember that if you have not jail broken your iPhone, you will not be able to unlock your phone. However it depends upon your choice as to which jail broken programme you choose. Here is what you ought to do: Download the jailbreak program. Connect your phone to your computer and turn it off. Run the jailbreak program. Choose your phone's IPSW file for its firmware. Select among the firmware's options. And lastly place your iPhone on DFU mode. Once your iPhone is jail broken all you need to do is unlock it. However there are 2 ways to unlock your iPhone. Either using only your iPhone or a combination of a PC and iPhone. The main advantage of using a PC and iPhone is that you can run this update on your phone and not have to worry about restoring your iTunes files or even losing data.

For Jail Breaking iPhone4S along with the cydia, iPhone 4s is tethered. This means that users have to be connected to a computer and reboot their device into jail broken state. But, If you device hangs you can't reboot it without losing the jailbreak. And after jail breaking your iPhone 4s all you need to do is unlock it. Unlocking your iPhone 4s will allow you to use the service provider of your personal choice. Thus enabling you to be free from a specific chained carrier. In order to jail break your iPhone iOS 5 all you need to do is just reload your data in Cydia and start searching for the package "Corona" and there by install it leaving your jail broken iPhone now untethered.
