Electronic Point Of Sale systems are the revolutionary tools regarded as the most important especially in a retail setting. EPOS systems are used by any business that have regular sales and maintain stock, from shops to diners and hotels, in fact almost all businesses would benefit from an Epos system.

The function of an Epos system is to control stock, increase sales and maximise profits as well as everyday tasks such as printing receipts. These systems really are a fantastic tool for planning your sales strategies highlighting stock levels of your best sellers and allowing you to stock adequate supplies as well as highlighting the lines which are not selling so well. These systems allow the business to make real time decisions; trends change from day to day so we need to be on top of these to protect the profit and loss accounts, especially in these tough economic times.

Electronic Point of Sale Traders (Epostraders) was incorporated in 2009 as an online one stop shop, selling quality used Epos hardware at competitive prices, this hardware included printers and barcode scanners as well as everything in-between. We have built up a fantastic reputation and our experienced staff whom have accumulated over 30 years of experience within this sector are as dedicated to our company ethos as we are. We aim to deliver a high quality used epos hardware system and believe that this doesn't have to cost the earth!

Our stock can be found on our website www.epostraders.co.uk and the stock is updated daily, we will have on average 1000 epos system lines online at any given time. We employ a team of engineers to ensure that the used epos hardware is in good working order, and each system, new or used is given a guarantee for added peace of mind.
