

Article Side

Need an Emergency Translation in a Hurry? Call Fast-French-Translations by John Victor

Article published on February 6th 2012 | Customer Service

Emergency translation issues are no longer a problem when you work with Fast-French-Translations.com, who has been in the game for over a decade strong and we offer a full selection of translation services for companies. But when time is of the essence, that is when we really show what we are made of and you will be impressed with the quality of work you will receive, without the sacrifice of speed and accuracy, which is the most important aspect of what we do at Fast-French-Translations.com.

It is a simple process when you order an emergency translation from Fast-French-Translations.com, and it all begins with our customer service representatives, who will guide you through the process of filling out a quote when you either call, email or fill out a form online at Fast-French-Translations.com. Once you speak to our representatives and figure out what services you would like to use, your payment is processed and your project assigned to a translator that is extremely well versed in the French language and all of the dialects under its umbrella. We are a North American company with offices in Toronto, Vancouver and Los Angeles, so we are the people to turn to when you are working with clients in Quebec, but we also have translators who are native speakers of the French you would hear in Europe. Parisian French is unique from the French you would hear in Quebec, and some companies would not take the time to differentiate the two. That is why we are different at Fast-French-Translations.com.

Your emergency translation is then reviewed for quality as we set a high standard in our industry and our translators understand this. Your project is uploaded to our database and finally, you will have our 30-day translation guarantee in full effect from the time you download your project. We will do all of this for you in a grand total of 48 hours if you need a quick turnaround, but you cannot delay any longer; head over to Fast-French-Translations.com and get the ball rolling.

We have a long list of multinational companies who will vouch for the work that we do and they are major players in their respective industries; companies such as Mercedes-Benz, Microsoft, Sheraton Hotels and Resorts, Von Dutch, Bombardier and Sotheby's™s. They depend on us to help them bridge the communication gap with our services in everything from legal to financial translation, from marketing translation to website localization and much, much more, and we also understand that things can change in a hurry and you might need an emergency translation quickly.

Visit Fast-French-Translations.com to find all of our contact information and get an idea of what we on our website, where you can read testimonials and get samples of our work. Do not put it off any longer; get in touch with Fast-French-Translations.com, your 911 service for an emergency translation!

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/customer-service-articles/need-an-emergency-translation-in-a-hurry-call-fast-french-translations.htm> - Article Side

John Victor - About Author:

John Victor is the author for a technical translation and a french translation services

Article Keywords:
business translation

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!