

Article Side

Marketing Dissertation by Johnshaw

Article published on July 16th 2012 | Data Recovery

Dissertation is referred to as a document, which is presented for the achievement of academic degree or as a professional requisite, which presents the research and findings of a researcher. Generally, dissertation is a formal but a lengthy piece of writing, which is written by the students for getting a doctoral degree from university. It is always based on original research and findings and is required for attaining an advanced academic degree. It is a formally and extensively written project, which engages the intense research by students. Dissertations are written in such a way that something new can be explored in that particular field of study.

The structure of the dissertation consists of a title page, abstract, table of contents, body and bibliography. The body of dissertation includes several chapters that are arranged in a systematic manner. These chapters comprise of introduction, literature review, research methodology, findings and analysis, and conclusion and recommendations. All these chapters are accepted in a serial as mentioned above. The dissertation committee administers the whole process of dissertation of a student. The chapter of introduction introduces aims and objective of research, literature review includes review of literary articles, research methodology chapter sets the research approach and design, findings and analysis throws light on findings of research, and conclusion and recommendation chapter ends the dissertation with appropriate recommendations.

We are the leading organization providing assistance to students and researchers in writing their research and dissertation. We cover all the requirements sent to us by the client so that a good dissertation could be prepared. We strictly pursue the deadline specified by our client. For More Info Visit Our Website www.marketingdissertation.co.uk

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/data-recovery-articles/marketing-dissertation.htm> - Article Side

Johnshaw - About Author:

Name: John Shaw

Address: 54-Scott Street, Glasgow, Scotland, UK

Ph No: 044-07005-963-091

Zip Code: G3 6PR

Article Keywords:

Custom term paper, essay, Accounting, Homework Help Providers, Plagiarism free