With the advent of the new millennium the economic system of India has gone through drastic changes. This process of change started during the 1990s with the liberalization of the Indian economy and later gained speed. The multinational companies as well as the private sector national companies with their various products and services on offer now have a major say in the working of the Indian economy. This has led to the requirement of many management graduates with specializations in different fields. So the contribution of Management Institute in India Business has increased many folds. Every year thousands of management trainees are produced by many management institutes from across the country.

There is very tough competition among the various management institutes of India to produce the best graduates. The Top management institute with the best of facilities and faculties produce management graduates who have the skills and expertise to innovate new ideas and products. They are centers of excellence in the field of management with 100% placement records. Their course curriculum is industry based prepared by the doyens in the field of management. Leading corporate houses of both India and abroad recruit these fresh graduates who later attain high positions in the new business ambience. The various standard specializations these management colleges offer are Marketing, Finance, Human Resources, IT/Systems, Operations and Entrepreneurship. More specific specializations include Corporate Social Responsibility, Wine Management, sports Industries, Luxury Brand Management, Hotel Management, Agriculture Business etc

India being agriculture based country and most of its industries using agriculture products as raw materials; management graduates specialized in the field of agriculture is required in large numbers. Many Agriculture Business College have thus come up all across the country, which are hubs of study and research on agricultural products and services. These are the ideal platforms where intellectual management graduates are educated and trained so that they can bring in reforms and innovations in the field of agriculture. The Agriculture business management is thus an integrated up to date course that aims to educate intellectual minds. The agriculture and food based industries and companies employ these management trainees to improve their scope of business.

Thus the various Management Colleges that have come up all across the country provide the ever expanding economy of India with able graduates who have the capability to think differently. The specialized courses that they offer have broadened the education scope in the country. A perfect balance between supply of management graduates and expansion of various business sectors has existed. It is a win- win situation for both the sides as the management graduates with specializations are provided with ample scope to use their talents and education and the industries and companies get the chance to expand their business by employing them.
