For the success of any business, reaching out to prospective clients is very important. People need to first know about your business before they try out your products or services. The art of informing people in an attractive way is called marketing. Marketing can be done in a variety of ways and one of the broad classifications is offline marketing and online marketing. Offline marketing is effective for reaching out to places where Internet is still yet to reach. But in general online marketing is much more cost effective as well as has a much wider reach.

Just consider this, how much would it cost you to post a newspaper advertisement or a television advertisement or a hoarding at a busy locality? Quite a fortune probably and even then, the reach you would get is around that particular place. But with online marketing you can post advertisements at a minimal cost while getting a worldwide reach. You can send bulk emails too to prospective clients informing them about your business without spending any money but reaching out to millions of people worldwide.

All you need for sending bulk emails is the database of the clients and an SMTP server. You can use common public mail servers like Gmail, yahoo and MSN too but the problem is that millions of other people uses these mail servers too and hence you would not be allowed to send bulk emails at a time as that might jam the server. Hence getting a personal business SMTP server is a good idea if you are keen on database marketing.

For the SMTP server to function well, you would need good SMTP mail server software. Such software are created, marketed and sold by a number of companies. Get a good and reputed one only after a little research so as not to be taken for a ride by such companies. A good company will also provide free installation of the SMTP mail server software as well as free of cost maintenance for some time. Before investing any money though, just make sure you understand the terms and conditions of using the SMTP mail server software as well as the company policies. Hence think and be smart in investing money on any kinds of marketing since a good marketing strategy can give you immense success whereas a badly thought of strategy can backfire and break your business.
