Playing outdoors aids physical and psychological development of children. While shopping for play equipment, always choose a toy that easily arouses the interest and curiosity of kids, and lures the children to play outdoors.

Interesting play equipments

Trampoline

Young children love bouncing on couches and beds. They are frequently chided for jumping indoors on furniture meant for sitting or sleeping. Disheartened by the sight of the sad faces of the bored little ones, parents always wish that there were something on which the child can jump to his/her heart's content. For these energetic kids, moms and dads can bring home a trampoline with an enclosure. Trampolines can be placed indoors or installed outdoors. Good quality trampolines comprising of durable jumping pads with frames made of galvanized steel and springs coated with zinc to prevent rusting are safe for kids. Trampolines with special UV protection coating are suitable for outdoor use.

Jungle gym

Jungle gyms are outstanding workout equipments for kids. Climbing the bars and nets and hanging from the overhead bars help to exercise the tender muscles of kids. Inspired by the manner in which monkeys play in forests, the first jungle gym or monkey bar was designed in the 1920. The early jungle gym was a simple ladder-rung climbing bar, a three-dimensional space designed for children to play and strengthen the muscles of their limbs and abdomen. Although, the original models are still available in playgrounds, the new generation jungle gyms boast of more attractive designs and additional accessories. Reputed play equipment stores offer a wide selection of jungle gyms. Jungle gym modules with playhouses are extremely popular among kids. There are jungle gyms with swings and slides. Most of these models are customizable.

Playhouses

Having a space of his or her own is the dream of every kid. Therefore, they will be overwhelmed with joy when you bring home a miniature house. The playhouse is the private space of your child that they can decorate and explore on their own. They can even welcome a friend to the wooden house.

Swings

Swinging is fun. If you have a small outdoor space where multiple play equipments or a large customizable jungle gym cannot be accommodated, consider installing a single swing where your child can swing while inhaling the fresh air and enjoying sunshine. Always buy swings that are strong and sturdy. The fittings should be made out of good quality and highly durable materials.
