Student loan default might cause bad credit record by Peter Paul

Article published on December 22nd 2011 | Finance

Facing difficulties in completing your education due to lack of funds? Your time to worry has come to an end now! Student loans are readily available that can fund your education and you can earn your much desired degree without any problem. However, student loan default is a serious problem that the world is facing today. The crisis is really severe in USA. Candidates take student loans and then do not repay back the loan on time. This makes the student loans in default. Till a time, the US government did not pay much attention to the student loan default thing. But when the amount of default crossed levels, the government was also bound to take strict steps regarding the same. After that many people have taken the matter of student loan in default seriously and are repaying back the loan on time.

In USA, there are two kinds of student loans that are most common. One is federal student loans and the other is private student loans. There are chances of student loan default in both the categories. However federal student loans in default are easier to tackle than private default student loans. However, it is interesting to see that getting federal student loans is quite difficult. There are many qualities and criteria that need to be satisfied to be eligible for a federal student loan.

On the other hand, private student loans are very easy to get. In fact banks, financial institutions and other lending authorities are sitting there ready to give student loans. But the various rules and regulations in private student loans are quite strict and on not paying the repayment on the designated date can take the student loans in default immediately. In federal loans, it is much more relaxed. Initially there is a delinquent period of 9 months and if the candidate can still not make the loan repayment, only then will his loan be categorized under student loan default.

While taking student loans, one must understand all the terms and conditions and the various clauses attached to the loans very carefully. This is particularly applicable for private student loans as student loans in default in this category can be really dangerous. Student loan default if not handled properly might lead to serious problems in future and might affect the professional, economical, social and financial career of a person adversely. Expert assistance can also be sought in grave crisis situations.
