

Article published on November 28th 2011 | Food

Mumbai is a place where people from all over India, come, stay and make their living. It is a place where we can find people of every caste, creed, culture and religion. In older times, Parsis and Portuguese have settled in Mumbai and now this city has become their homeland. A confluence of different culture, art, religion, festivals and cuisine has made Mumbai one of the most popular destinations in India. Because of its multi cultural confluence, Mumbai has an array of some really good restaurants. This ultra stylish city where glitz and glamour is the call of the day, offers you some of the world class fine diners as well as modest eateries. With its style and charm Mumbai has over four thousand restaurants in and around it that includes the famous Mumbai suburbs too.

It is often and rightly said, that if it is in the trend, you get it first in Mumbai. The birth place of fashion and trend for all Indians, Mumbai restaurants has a lot to offer to India and her people. Most of the up market and posh restaurants in Mumbai offer fantastic, mouth watering buffet for breakfast, lunch and dinner. There are various popular joints that offer buffets that are mainly Indian or continental. There are quite a few restaurants located in Andheri, Juhu, Cuff Parade, Linking Road, Khar, Bandra that offers fantastic buffet for everyone. Some of the most famous buffet restaurants in Mumbai are Nirvana in Chembur, Jewel of India Restaurant in Worli, Exotica Restaurant and Resort in Thane, Lucky Restaurant in Bandra, Grand Central Hotel in Chembur, Saffron Spice in Powai, Swiggs Bar in vile Parle, Grand Café in Santacurz and list is quite long.

Most of these restaurants in Mumbai serves Indian cuisine in their buffets in which delicacies like, paneer tikka, palak paneer, dal makhani, ghosht biryani, murg haryali and a large platter of kebabs are quite common as well as popular. The super luxury hotels in Mumbai serve a large variety of delicacies for their guests. The Glasshouse in Hyatt in Mumbai serve special Sunday lunch buffet that includes an interesting combination of Indian kebabs, and continental specialities. The most irresistible thing about glasshouse is its dessert buffet. This is a must try for everyone. The glasshouse also offers Indian thalis for lunch and dinner.

Powai is a fast developing part of Mumbai outskirts and it is famous for its lake. Powai has quite a few good restaurants that serve buffet lunch and dinner. Some of the popular buffet restaurants in Powai are Out of the blue, Fusion, Chili's, Spaghetti Kitchen, Rude Lounge, Utsav Cuisine, Café Mangii, Faaso's, Ribbons and Balloons, The Flavour Charpai, and many more. Powai restaurants provide buffets on various cuisines. Whether it is Indian, Continental, Mexican, European, French, Italian, or Oriental, you get it all in Powai.

Mumbai restaurants definitely can boasts of the wide array of cuisines that it offers. Along with the continental food chains, like, McDonalds, KFC and Pizza Hut spread all over the city, the Indian as well as other world cuisines are serving thousands of people every day.

Article Source:

http://www.articleside.com/food-articles/famous-buffet-restaurants-in-mumbai.htm - Article Side

Sharandeep Sinha - About Author:

Just Eat provides home delivery services and table reservations through online. Find a restaurant in Bandra, Powai, Mumbai, Gurgaon, Noida, Delhi and ten other cities in India through Justeat, India's leading online food ordering service. To know more visit http://justeat.in/location/mumbai/powai-restaurants/267.

Article Keywords: restaurants in bandra, restaurants in powai

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!