21st Century: the Era of Gaming by Marlene Kuhn

Article published on August 7th 2012 | Games

With the increasing demand of android phones these days, the hype for the android gaming seems to have pace up all the more. People are indulging into gaming these days for pleasure to distract themselves and to curb daily stress. These daysâ€™™ people indulge more into indoor gaming. They enjoy the vivid graphics designed by the gaming companies. There is a great variety of applications and the wide range of games available these days to help people fight stress, some of the examples of the most played and rated games are Temple Run, Ninja Chicken, Ice Age 4 and many other.

For some people, it is not just about gaming; it is about religion for some people. They follow games religiously. Some people even use cheat codes to succeed. Cheat codes are used by people to perform better. Cheat codes help score better and get better at the game. Some games like Call of Duty gives a good sneak peek into the history. People get to know a lot about history, since people nowadays are least bothered to know about history, what happened in their past and how they all landed up where they are.

One of the games like Ice Age 4 Continental Drift is gaining popularity day by day. People are switching from their usual games to games like Ice Age 4 Games. Since Ice Age 4 has graphics which are unmatched, the quality of graphics so vivid that people just get all engrossed playing the games like these. Apart from the graphics, the sound system attached to the games and the way the game is designed is purely based on the purpose of giving that relaxation.

Apart from all the plus points of these gaming apps there are a number of disadvantages of the same. Children from small age group get involved in these get addicted to playing these and creating those high scores that they donâ€™™t pay attention to their studies. They divert more time to gaming rather than studying what they should actually do in their age group. Also the adults indulge in these groups way too much they; donâ€™™t get much time to concentrate on other things. They donâ€™™t have social life anymore. So gaming is bane for some and boon for many.

All in all gaming is good for people and they enjoy getting into the grip of this new era of gaming. Ice Age 4 is good choice to make; people should definitely go for it.
