World of Warcraft Help Guide by Paul Burkhardt

Article published on January 5th 2012 | Games

If you are a MMORPG gamer, then you are more than likely a WOW fan. If you are then you know all about the head aches and problems when trying to get ahead in WOW. Going around like a vagrant with no sense of direction and no idea which way to go and of course your coin sack is practically empty. Gaming online is designed to be enjoyable, right? I don't know how you feel but wasting my free time doing monotonous and tedious tasks like skinning or even worse doing over old quests that you have all ready done ten or more times just so you can get gold so you can hopefully advance your rogue just a little bit.

We have all checked around the internet for a little advantage when it comes to advancing in Warcraft. But be wary of a lot of the so called Warcraft guides out there. I hate to say it but there are a huge amount of bad people who wouldn't think twice about selling you out of date information or even information that risks getting your account shut down from WOW. You heard that right, your World of Warcraft account can be banned temporarily or even for ever.

Blizzard Entertainment has precise rules and specifications concerning proper manners and fair game play in WOW. Neglecting to comply with these rules or the use of cheats is absolutely forbidden and can cause your account to be temporarily suspended or potentially even banned.

What a terrible feeling it would be to all of a sudden, not be able to play your favorite game with your friend's. Make sure this does not happen to you. Be wary of emails disguised to appear like they came from Blizzard Entertainment that ask for your personal World of Warcraft account information. If you ever receive a message like this go straight to WOW help to learn if it is for real or a scam. Ask WOW help to look at the email if need be. It's not worth the risk. There are a bunch of scam's out there, I could never name them all. If you see something that says that they have great WOW stuff for sale, or says that they are going to give you something of value in return for something just say bye and stay away.

Anyone that even mentions swapping accounts that sound like simple gestures are probably not, so stay far away from them. Make sure to read up on what is permitted and not permitted in World of Warcraft. Don't let someone else ruin your good reputation.

If really want real help on playing World of Warcraft better and not by using cheats or hacks check out a secure WOW strategy site that is continuously monitored and regularly updated and built upon. There you will find more than enough of great WOW gaming information that will not put your World of Warcraft account at risk. Not only will you find simple WOW strategy like spec's, but even Alliance and Horde specific, class specific and even profession specific help. So begin enjoying World of Warcraft like you never thought possible by learning how to play it safely and more efficiently.
