Walk in to any cosmetic dentistry clinic in New York and you will have full appointments. New Yorkers today consider a beautiful smile as an integral part of an individual's personality. A cosmetic dentist NYC clinic offers futuristic procedures that help in making teeth healthier and achieving a smile makeover.

In the section below, let us understand how cosmetic dentistry has an edge over traditional dentistry –

Restores self Confidence - Cosmetic dentistry procedures provide results that help to fix any type of dental flaws. These flaws can be in the form of crooked, broken, cracked or missing teeth. An imperfect set of teeth may affect the overall self image/confidence of a person. Cosmetic dentistry procedures help in perfecting the teeth and achieving a Hollywood type of makeover that is an instant boost to the self-confidence of an individual.

Restores function – There might be cases in which the functionality of the teeth may get affected. For instances in cases such as missing teeth the neighboring teeth may be affected and it may lead to improper bite alignment. The procedure of dental implants helps to replace missing teeth and restores the function by correcting the bite. Other common issues may include that of dental bruxism or grinding of the teeth that in turn may give rise to a serious disorder called as Temporomandibular joint disorder (TMJ). The services provided in a Cosmetic Dentist NYC clinic include dental therapy that helps in the treatment of bruxism.

Promptness – One of the reasons cosmetic dentistry has an edge over traditional dentistry is the promptness it offers. Some procedures may require a matter of minutes to others that may require a few sittings. Whitening procedures for instance may require anywhere between 30 minutes to an hour. Other cases such as that of dental aligners for straightening of teeth may require up to six months. However, this is in stark contrast to the traditional dentistry procedures like braces that may take years to show results.

Little or no follow-up care – The only follow up care required for a dental procedure may include maintaining a good dental hygiene. Unlike traditional dental procedures that require extensive cleaning and result is high levels of discomfort, cosmetic dentistry procedures are more convenient.
