

Article Side

Do People actually need hand cream? by Lexoremman

Article published on January 6th 2012 | Health

Currently, people are becoming more concerned in not only taking care of their health but additionally with their own appearance. This shows why there are several beauty items that you can acquire including hair conditioner, facial moisturizer and hand cream.

You may question yourself if it is actually okay to use one particular type of cream for your entire body since its intent is to actually moisturise your skin and prevent dry skin. The reply to your question is absolutely no! Each and every beauty product is concocted to provide different functions not to mention to treat particular skin conditions. You can't apply hand cream on your face since it will certainly clog the skin pores since it is a specially created skin product that has a thicker consistency as opposed to other lotion. This specific thicker consistency enables the cream to remedy the rough patches which typically develop on knuckles and also palms.

Further, hand cream is normally manufactured using beneficial ingredients for instance petroleum jelly, shea butter, lanolin and cocoa butter for its emollient foundation while glycerine is included for its water binding factor. Additional ingredients you can read at the label ranges from various nutrients such as Vitamin A, C and E together with plant and herbal extracts which gives particular gains.

The purpose of each and every heavy-duty substances incorporated on hand cream is to combat several abuses our hands experience throughout the day. Consider, from the moment you wake up until you sleep in the evening your hands are certainly one of the busiest part of your body. They are actually more exposed to different substances like harsh detergents and soaps in addition the pressure and stress they sustain specifically if you are an individual who absolutely does hard manual job for instance grasping metal and even hard gadgets. Any time left uncared, your hands will undoubtedly be rough and dry and will certainly age faster than the other areas of your body.

Consequently, there are some instances when your hands still remain dry and scratchy in spite of using hand cream on a regular basis. The possible explanation to this is you could be using a cream which contains strong chemical compounds which might be too severe on your skin. Once this happens you should seek the advice of a dermatologist who can help you treat the discomfort.

Selecting the most appropriate hand cream can be extremely complicated. Importantly, you should check the labels as several creams only support in hydrating your skin while some deliver certain uses such as reducing wrinkles and age spots.

Considering that hand cream is greasier than lotion, it is better used soon after taking your shower in which it can be better absorbed and possibly at night before going to sleep. You can also use hand cream any time during the day in case you feel dryness on your hands. Actually there is certainly no limit on how many times you can put it on as long as it does not hinder your routines. Your intention anyway is to have delicate and supple hands just like when you were much younger. Thus make it your own routine and have that hand cream always within your reach!

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/health-articles/do-people-actually-need-hand-cream.htm> - Article Side

Lexoremman - About Author:

Heathcote-Ivory.com offer a range of luxury products including a first class selection of toiletries range designed by a Cath Kidston including Wild Rose, Bluebell, Honeysuckle and many more.

Article Keywords:

hand cream, Cath Kidston, drawer liners, luxury products

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!