Everyone in the world wants to look good and beautiful. However, at times there are certain defects which are along with us since the time of birth. This can be structured part of the body or organs which are not perfectly shaped. Thus in order to cure them, people these days are indulging into many type of surgeries.

The surgery can be for lips, eyes etc. one of the most common surgery which is done for the nose is known as Rhinoplasty Rhinoplasty is a kind of plastic surgery which is done so as to enable to give the shape to the nose. It is also known as nose job. It is derived from a Greek word which means to give shape. It provides the reconstruction of the nose and thus correcting its shape and size depending upon the requirement of the patient.

It is not only that this treatment is done only to provide a beautiful shape to the nose rather it is done for other purposes as well such as in case for patients who are suffering from asthma, nasal trauma, respiratory problems etc.

Types of Rhinoplasty

The main types of Rhinoplasty are:

- (1) Open Rhinoplasty; - in this kind of Rhinoplasty cuts are made in the vertical strip of the skin and thus results in dividing the nostril. The skin is then lifted in order to have the visual view of the inside of the nose. The process of reshaping is done after this. It is a very common technique which is done for doing major surgeries for nose.
- (2) Closed Rhinoplasty - in this process also cuts are done on the nose. However, the skin is then divided from the nose and the gristle. These are then worked upon to provide the desired results, that is, it can removed, reshaped etc. all minor kind of surgeries generally uses this kind of technique.
- (3) Filler Rhinoplasty- In this kind of surgery the depressions are filled with the help of Juvederm and Restylane. This helps in gaining a smooth structure and thus cures the deficiencies of the nose. Though a surgery is done it is known as non-surgical nose job;
- (4) Revision Rhinoplasty - Normally when a Rhinoplasty is done, at times there still remain certain defects which needs to be cured. Revision Rhinoplasty are done in order to do so;
- (5) Ethnic Rhinoplasty - This is the most common type of Rhinoplasty which is done in order to enhance the ethnicity. It is very popular among African-Americans.

Thus, these are some of the types of Rhinoplasty or Rhinoplasty in Delhi which are availed by people in order to done nose job. Rather it is the most demanding type of surgeries which are availed by people in order to enhance their beauty. The type of Rhinoplasty depends upon the type of irregularity or deformity which the organ faces.

Thus, in order to involve in any surgery it is better to understand the problem one is facing and thus consult his / her doctor before deciding which surgery one need to undergo.
