To understand about FUE, which is expanded as Follicular Unit Extraction, a person will have to get some fundamental knowledge about conventional method of hair transplantation called as strip harvest. Under this conventional method, four to five hairs are taken from the back of the head of the person undergoing this treatment and this area from where hair is removed is called as donor area. Once hair is removed from the donor area, stitch is made due to which scar is developed in the donor area. On the other hand, the latest method of Hair Transplant being FUE avoids formation of such scars.

Some specialists say that there is some quality difference in the method of FUE and this is mainly because of the skill level of the specialist offering this treatment. When it comes to FUE hair transplant Pakistan, there are some of the best surgeons offering this treatment and if a person decides to go for hair transplant in Lahore, he will have to consider the following points:

The first and foremost point to be considered is the cost of FUE Hair transplant Pakistan and cost of this procedure generally depends on the expertise of the surgeon and on the number of grafts or hair follicles required for a patient.

The experience of the surgeon should also be considered when it comes to Hair Transplant Lahore. This is because, it is something related to the physic of individual and when an inexperienced surgeon is selected it might cause some problems. Even though, the best surgeons cost more, the best hair transplantation can be assured. There are the best hair transplantation clinics in Pakistan that offer the best care to patients looking for professional help. Moreover, FUE method will not be suitable for all and only when professional help of obtained, a person can come to a conclusion whether or not he is eligible for that surgery.

Some of the best clinics in Pakistan specially meant for offering treatments like removal of acne scar, wrinkle treatment, laser rejuvenation, etc offer the best hair plantation treatments under different categories like FUE hair transplant, hair transplant surgery, hair restoration, hair loss treatment and hair replacement. Among these treatments, the best suitable method is chosen by the professionals according to the requirement of individual patients. Therefore, it would be wise to arrive at a decision with respect to selection of appropriate clinic for hair transplantation after considering the factors mentioned earlier for ensuring the best treatment.
