A shower stool or a chair is meant to be used in a tub for people who cannot stand steadily for long. Using such a stool, a person with a limited mobility can get himself or herself bathed with ease. These stools are highly portable and can be moved from one place to another in seconds. This ensures that even others manage to make full use of the showers as well. While installation of the stools for the first time, some form of external assistance is required, because the installation process is little bit difficult for physically unfit people to handle alone.

Focus on Your Requirements: - When it comes to purchasing Shower chairs for elderly, be sure that you focus on your requirements and select the model that suits your needs the best. There are plenty of models to choose from with some designed for some specific purposes whereas others meant to be used over stalls or tubs. Adjust the settings manually to make it comfortable for the person sitting in it.

Secure The Chair In Place: - Get the stool securely placed in the stalls or tubs. While some models have rubber tipped legs to minimize the chances of slipping, a few other models have wheels that offer an additional mobility allowing the seat to be transported from one place to other. It is vital to get the keys locked properly before allowing someone to sit in it.

Transfer The Patient Carefully: - Getting in and out of the showers is something that sounds to be simple but is dangerous to say the least. Therefore, be extra cautious in this regard.

Use Safety Belts: - It is always recommended to use the safety belts to ensure a better stability and a feeling of comforts and security.
