These arguments can easily be prevented by paying a house cleaning service to handle the housework for you! Not only will many fights be avoided, you will also have more time to do other enjoyable things.

The Commute Time in Toronto Cuts 80 Minutes Out of Your Average Day

This is especially true for those who live in Toronto, Canada, because the commute time there is one of the worst of all the major cities. In a recent study done of nineteen major cities by the Toronto Board of Trade, Toronto's commute time is actually the worst. On average, a person in Toronto spends 80 minutes commuting per round trip. This is 12 minutes longer than New Yorkers, 24 minutes longer than Los Angeles commuters, and 32 minutes longer than people commuting in Barcelona. The study includes times of people who take the public transit, not just the travel times for people who drive their cars to work.

Paying a House Cleaning Service Provides You with a Relaxing, Clean Environment

The study also states that about 29% of people in Toronto leave their cars at home, while 74% of people in Paris do not use their car to commute and 90% of Hong Kong residents walk, cycle, or take the public transit. Therefore, workers in Toronto usually have approximately 80 minutes of their day taken away. On top of that, when they come home from work, they may feel stressed out due to gridlock and aggressive drivers. Obviously, this sets the stage for a couple to get into an argument. By paying a house cleaning service, you can come home to a clean environment to truly relax.
