So, why exactly are the Reflex Glass skylights products considered to be the foremost products in the industry?

As anyone who has a conservatory on their property understands, throughout the cool winter months the opportunities to relax and unwind in the cool environment are somewhat limited. Reflex Glass selection of skylights and conservatory glass is designed to enable you to use your conservatory all year round.

As a UK-based skylights manufacturer as well as manufacturers of a revolutionary type of solar glass control system and switchable Smart Tint LCD privacy glass, these skylights can be used in a number of different conservatory designs and products, most notably skylights and roof lanterns.

As the trading name of Roof-Maker Limited, Reflex Glass specialises in the supply of double and triple glazed glass for skylights, and indeed all manner of conservatory glass. All of the glass that we supply for skylights, or indeed all manner of conservatory-designs, is manufactured from our twenty thousand square foot facility in Leicester. We offer all of our customers to purchase the glass for skylights directly from us, and if you purchase such glass for skylights from us in bulk then you will automatically receive a discount.

All of the products that we offer can be delivered to you in a swift and decisive manner. We have a nationwide network of delivery vehicles so that we can deliver directly to your premises, or home with a minimum of fuss. All of the products that we offer are at the height of durability. The Rooflex product range has an invisible metallic coating inside the glass and reflects up to ninety five percent of the sun's infrared heat. As with our entire range of skylights and double or triple glazing products each of our customers is treated to a twenty year warranty, which certainly sets us apart from other competing companies.

If you'd like to find out any more information about our selection of products, or to contact us to discuss any bespoke requests then you need only come and visit our website at:
