Among the world of window shades, roman shades certainly make a massive difference to the entire idea of window treatment. Being made of various luxurious fabric and natural materials, these shades not only exude elegance and grandeur, they also add to the functionality of window shades per se. One point to note about these shades is that these are not very easily available in the market as the ordinary readymade shades are. It is also difficult to locate the same as any odd shop does not sell these shades. Unlike the readymade shades, the roman shades can come in any shape and size to suit the specific requirement of the windows in your home. Some home owners do not build windows of standard size and the shades available in common stores are tailored to cater to only the windows of standard sizes. Any change and there is a possibility that these will be a complete misfit for the windows. However, with the facility of having the shades custom made as is possible with roman shades, it can fit any window irrespective of the dimensions.

Roman shades are available in many different types. Those made of fabric are among the ones that are popular among many home owners. These are classic and can add to the look of homes with traditional decor. A single fabric panel with strings along the entire length forms these fabric shades. The entire look is extremely tidy and non cluttered. People can choose from single neutral shades which is a very safe bet as it goes with almost any color theme in your home. Choosing from a range of colorful patterns and designs is also an option if you would want to add a dash of rich colors to your otherwise neutral home, without the risk of going over the top.

The bamboo roman shades are also very much in demand. The elegance of natural fabric never goes unnoticed. The fact that these shades add to the cause of the environment, makes it all the more attractive to people of the present times. Bamboo shades are also very good insulators. It tends to keep the rooms warm in winters and cool in summers. Choosing the right shade and texture one can also add a touch of Asian theme to rooms in the house. Another form of roman shades that is making considerable stir in the market is the Ambria shades and these are also known for providing good insulation to the rooms just like the bamboo shades.

An aspect of these shades that is highly appreciable and also makes with the top down bottom up shades unique is the fact that these shades can be custom made. The owner can create his / her own shade choosing their own material and design. While custom making of shades is an option, one can also make shades by oneself with the help of online or offline guidance. Being unique and luxurious, the shades do come at a price much higher than the ordinary shades available in the market.
