Vinyl Flooring Hits New Style Heights by Paulryan

Article published on April 9th 2012 | Home Improvement

If you still associate vinyl floors in Los Angeles, CA with black and white checkerboards or light blue and white tiles that tear easily, then it's time to update your information. Vinyl flooring is nothing like the original vinyl sheeting or tiles. In fact, the high quality styles look so much like wood flooring or ceramic or stone tile, you'll be amazed to discover it's vinyl.

Browsing online vinyl selections or making a trip to the flooring store is a true eye-opener. Thanks to technology, the new vinyl flooring is durable, tear resistant and offered in a seemingly unlimited variety of patterns and colors. In addition, the new manufacturing processes create vinyl sheeting and tiles that also feel comfortable when walking on the flooring. With a slight cushioning effect, the vinyl is easy on the joints and muscles, and it never feels cold and unwelcoming.

Whereas once vinyl was found primarily in entrance ways, kitchens and bathrooms, it's now used in most rooms in houses. You will find vinyl floors in Los Angeles, CA rooms that include dens, living rooms, family rooms and even bedrooms. They have no grout to clean like tile and never need staining like wood flooring. It can't collect dust like carpet either. It's no wonder that so many people choose the new vinyl flooring when it offers:

- >> Affordability
- >> Dent and scratch resistance
- >> Stain resistance
- >> Easy maintenance
- >> Environmental safety
- >> Durability

A Tough Plastic With Remarkable Features

Vinyl is a type of tough plastic that technology and innovative design features has turned into the highest quality material. The most recent vinyl product additions are luxury tiles that even include a base layer stone content to add exceptional durability. Other technological advances include:

- >> Protective coatings that resist stains and scratches
- >> Protective coatings that resist surface bacteria
- >> 3D texturing that makes the vinyl look exactly like stone, wood or tile flooring
- >> Texturing that makes the vinyl feel like stone, wood or tile flooring
- >> Unlimited color choices

Vinyl Supports Lifestyles

One of the best features of vinyl flooring in Los Angeles, CA homes is the fact it supports any lifestyle. Vinyl flooring fits a sophisticated elegant décor, a rustic interior or a family friendly style.

However, it offers much more than just styling. The new technology has also added resilience to the flooring so dropped toys, dishes and remotes won't dent the vinyl like they would dent wood flooring. Normal household activities including playing children and running pets are easily managed by vinyl flooring.

If you think of vinyl flooring in terms of limited designs and colors and so relegate it to backrooms and small areas, you'll be very surprised by the new vinyl sheeting and tiles. The first thing you'll do is reach out to touch the vinyl because it looks so much like wood or ceramic or stone tile. You can even buy vinyl based on the amount of gloss if you want shiny looking floors.

Vinyl flooring in Los Angeles, CA has hit new style heights thanks to technology. It's designed for households enjoying active lifestyles and for people who don't have time to worry about their flooring.
