Varied Uses of Parasols in a Wedding by John Chen

Article published on December 1st 2011 | Interior Design

Whether it is a summer wedding or a winter wedding, a parasol has always got several applications. From a savior from scorching summer sun to a wedding favor, uses of a parasol are many. Let us have a look at some of the most popular uses of parasols in a wedding:

As a Shade Provider:

In a summer season wedding, it is often difficult to keep your make-up intact. The scorching sun can try its best to dissolve your make-up. A wedding ceremony parasol can not only save you from the scorching sun rays, but it will also make you look extremely stylish and trendy. You will look special in the crowd and will attract attention of the whole gathering. These are usually paper parasols and are meant to offer only sun-protection. The paper parasols don't come handy in case of a serious downpour.

As Wedding Favors

Parasols are wonderful wedding favors. Regardless of the season in which you are getting married, they can be gifted to people as a gesture of thanks for their time and love. You can get personalized parasols with the pictures of the couple, wedding, date or any special message you want to publish on it. These parasols will always serve as a remembrance for your special day. Moreover, it is always better to gift something useful rather than spending money on something that will never come out of the closet

As Decorative

If you have a beach themed wedding or a day reception in an open area, parasols can come really handy as decorative. Personalized lunch tables decorated with parasols will make the party look classy and your guests happy. Paper parasols will be ideal to use for the occasion as they are extremely cheap and serve the main purpose of blocking sun rays. Moreover, you can personalize the paper parasols right at your home without spending much.

As an Expression of Thanks

One thing I was extremely obsessed while planning my wedding was a thank you parasol. I am sure it was not only me but many other people will agree that usage of parasols as a thank you gift is a great idea. This is such a beautiful way to express it to your loved ones that you are thankful to them for making your special day even more special. In addition think of the beautiful snaps of the paper parasol saying "Thank You", which will complete your wedding album
