Finding the best search engine optimisation company is a challenge simply because many of such companies claim to be the best. In the UK, there are literally hundreds of Best SEO Company. They would offer an evaluation of the existing website. They would provide technical advice about hosting websites. And they would conduct SEO training. But from the point of view of online entrepreneurs, there is only one measure to look at. And that measure is expressed in one little word: results. But is it really important to hire such a company?

Search engine optimisation or SEO is a crucial aspect of any online business. The simplest way to describe SEO is that it is a marketing strategy. But the medium is radically different from those of conventional strategies, in which paper flyers or TV ads are used within a brick-and-mortar world. With SEO, the world is the Internet and the strategies must operate within the electronically fuelled structure of search engines. For example, a conventional marketing strategy would be to use a strategically located billboard. On the other hand, the SEO would aim for a high search engine ranking.

The task of making the online company rank high in the search engines can be daunting for an entrepreneur who only has a great business idea but not familiar with the technicalities of cyberspace. Fortunately, choosing the Top SEO Companies is not rocket science. After all, the entrepreneur's goal is simple, which is to get a company that can produce good results. All that is needed is a little investigation of several Search Engine Optimization Company.

The first area to investigate is the list of search engines that the SEO Optimization Company has been successful with. If a company claims to have made an online business rank high in a search engine, the entrepreneur should ask: which search engine? According to the prestigious research group, Nielsen, the most popular search engines are Google, Yahoo MSN, AOL, and Ask. Other search engines that are not found here are being utilized by less than the share of Ask.com. The Best SEO Companies are those that can produce high rankings, not just in one search engine but also in the top three search engines.

Another area to investigate is about the use of key phrases. The key phrases can be considered as the bloodline of search engine rankings. An excellent search engine optimisation company should have the ability to make key phrases rank high. However, the entrepreneur must ask the specific key phrases that have been positioned highly through the efforts of the SEO Company. If the high-ranking key phrase is as questionable as "cat silky wear," then the claimed results of the company has no substance. The key phrases should be terms that are actually used by web surfers.
