

Article Side

Good street furniture can make a road look good by Ashish Pandey

Article published on December 13th 2011 | Internet

Have you ever wondered about the various kinds of furniture that are seen on the roadsides or in parks or other public places? Sometimes the furniture are so very wonderful that they leave us awe-struck. There are various things that can be categorized under street furniture. While some are high on utility, some are there to enhance the beauty of the place. The furniture that are manufactured are of wide ranges and include seats, bike shelters, benches, light poles, walkways, canopies and many more. With good quality street furniture, it is easier for the older people to move on the roads. If they get tired, they can relax on the various benches and seats that are installed. For evening and morning walks, they can walk under covered walkways and canopies.

Majority of the developed countries have good parking facilities and huge car parking areas, where large numbers of vehicles can be parked at a time. For bikes and other kinds of two wheelers, there are separate bike shelters made so that bikes can be parked in those specific places. Furniture and other materials for park-streetfurnishing is carried out by quite large numbers of companies. Majority of them strive to make products that are of good quality and are highly durable. The most important thing that has to be kept in mind while manufacturing these products is that they should be resistant to water, heat, snow and other natural forces as direct onslaught of nature is inflicted on these things. It is also important that these things should be duly maintained and repaired when damaged.

Manufacturing furniture and furnishing for roads and streets is not an easy job. Various things have to be kept in mind in doing so. The amount of space that is required is the most important thing. For large parking areas, expansive bike shelters can be designed with innumerable slots for the bikes and cycles, but if a bike shelter is required for a narrow area, the designing has to be done accordingly. Majority of the sheds also have a covering on top so that the vehicles are not affected by the rain or snow or heat. Talking of covered canopies and walkways, they are just great for the older people. Because of the cover, they are saved from the scorching sun or the chilling cold, rain or snow. They can walk comfortably without worries of being hit by vehicles.

Benches in parks or on roadsides or in large malls and shopping plazas are also useful. People in all ages can rest on the various benches and the seats after a walk in the park or when they get tired after a long shopping. Apart from these, fencing and gates, light posts, flower planters, tree guards, bins, bollards, and many more things are also categorized under street furnishing and furniture. These furniture are also supplied by the various companies that deal with street furniture manufacturing and supplying. The manufacturing companies use the latest advanced technologies in making these essential products.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/internet-articles/good-street-furniture-can-make-a-road-look-good.htm> - Article Side

Ashish Pandey - About Author:

Click here to know more about a Park-streetfurnishing and a Bike shelters.

Article Keywords:

Park-streetfurnishing, Bike shelters

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!