Black and Gold Jewelry Make Fabulous Accessories for Most Outfits by Allison Edrington

Article published on January 4th 2012 | Jewelry

The fashion world rose against the onslaught of neutral and lifeless tones to once again embrace the bright world of colored jewelry and clothes. Even so, not everyone is so willing to jump back into the paint bucket of fashion to see what colors we can manage to “match” together “ blue and yellow were previously just popular advertising colors but have now bizarrely hit the fashion scene.

While these colors work on someone who is proud to wear them, that brash approach to fashion may not be your ideal situation. It can be understandable to shy away from such colors after neutral colors ruled the fashion runways and streets for so long. The best solution is to find a midway point that you can easily jump to from where you currently stand, and those two approaches meet at black and gold.

These two tones have enough contrast to stand out while not being so brash as neon colors. Black and gold jewelry is a perfect solution to adding some spice to everyday outfits, whether you decide to stick with safe tones or jump into the colorful fray. Trendy earrings, knuckle rings, necklaces, belts and other accessories will work with almost anything in your closet, too. Look for bold patterns in gold and black to get the best effect.

Warming up to the fashion trends may seem a challenge, but gold and black jewelry will help get you there faster. At the very least, accessories can turn bland ensembles into something worth mentioning.
