Advantages and Disadvantages of Serviced Offices for Small Businesses by Blake Mitchell

Article published on March 20th 2012 | Management

It doesn't matter if it's in Arlington, Ballston, or Reston; the fact is, Virginia is one of the most competitive business centers in the United States. Startup businesses have to be extra resourceful to survive in the Virginia rat race. If you are running a small business, then it is important to do some necessary cost-cutting measures.

One of the biggest expenditures in starting a business is setting up an office. Now, what is the ideal solution for this predicament? It is getting an office that is equipped and ready to be occupied. Serviced offices are ideal for small businesses because it will give them the look of having a big company at a fraction of their expenses. There are several advantages of opting for a serviced office space.

Most serviced offices are located in prime business centers all over Virginia. This means your headquarters would be more accessible to your current and potential clients. Staff (e.g. receptionist, IT support, security, cleaning, etc.) usually comes with the package, which means less pay checks for you to budget and sign. Serviced offices also come with amenities such as high speed Internet, break rooms, and many more.

Any serviced office space in Arlington VA usually has an adjustable lease. That means if you are in need of more space, then you can upgrade to a bigger office suite and still retain the same business address. You can also downgrade to a smaller less expensive office if things do not go too well. Whichever way you decide, serviced office spaces can accommodate businesses of any size, so there's bound to be an office space you can use. Of course, a serviced office is not without its fair share of disadvantages.

When you move into a serviced office space in Ballston VA, no matter how luxurious it may be, you can't completely incorporate your personal style in the design because you are leasing. If you are not too fond of hardwood floors, then you might have to just get used to them if the available office space has them installed.

When it comes to moving in a serviced office space in Reston VA, the rule of thumb is that it is more ideal if you stay short term. The rental costs may not be as cost-efficient as you imagine if you stay in the long run.
