

Article Side

Indian marriage customs with suitable Indian Wedding wears and accessories by Angarkh Essentiallyindian

Article published on December 8th 2011 | Marriage

The wedding season is start. Wedding is one of the most important occasions for any Indian girl and she wishes to make this occasion the most memorable in her life. Wedding outfits plays a vital role in making your special occasion more special and unforgettable. Here I try to discard confusion of a bride for her pleasing and charming dress ups.

The Indian weddings are all about designer Indian bridal wear, lots of jewelries and celebrations. From Mehndi to wedding vows, everyone turns his eyes to a bride. At first glance anyone can easily recognize a bride due to her heavy dress up and jewelry.

To begin with Haldi ceremony, a bride is not advised to wear sari, usually the bride wears yellow dress for this ceremony or comfortable Churidar or Salwar Kameez is perfectly suitable for this ceremony. The next ceremony in the line is the Mehndi ceremony. Applying Mehndi is the first step to the bridal attire. Now-a-days, bride likes to keep Mehndi up to the arms on the hands and up to the knees on the legs. An elegant light weighted Lehanga is perfect to manage, when Mehndi is applied all over hands and legs.

Bridal generally does not accessorize by wearing jewelries on both the occasions. She preferred to glamorize herself by light weighted "Mang tika" on her forehead along with hanging earrings.

Now next is the very special day for her, the wedding day. On this significant day Lehanga is the most preferable costume for the bride. You can choose India bridal wear, wedding lehanga, designer bridal lehanga, mermaid lehanga, umbrella lehanga and many more varieties to make the special day even more special by dressing like a princess. It needs to be unique and as well as chic and still to be fit in your budget.

After being properly dress up, there comes jewelry. The more you wear, the lesser it is. Starting from the "Mang tika", you should choose "Mang tika" according to the shape of your face. Then Nathni which emphasis your bridal look. It is almost a symbol of Indian bridal. The neck piece and the earrings should compliment to each other. You can have neck tied necklace followed by a slightly longer one and an even longer one. But since gold is given due importance in the Indian wedding you can choose your jewellery according to your wedding attire. You can have "Baju Bandha" for your arms and "Kamar Patta" for your waist. Lots of bangles are must for the wedding day. The shoes or the sandals are the last accessory to complete your look. Select pair which is comfortable. Avoid high heels.

Men's Sherwani is generally designed to contrast with the Indian bridal lehanga. Sherwani crafted with silk fabric and embroidery is more in fashion and also prefer by most of the young gents. The old days when there is no choice of colors for Sherwani are gone. Nowadays Sherwanis are available in many funky colors like red, grey, blue which makes your look different from the crowd and enhance your personality. During small events man do wear "Kurtas" along with "Pyjamas" and "Dhotis".

Men can accessorize themselves with the help of turban matching with the Sherwani. Mojri shoes or Jutis and stoles along with Sherwani gracefully affect your look.

The perfect look for bridal and groom is ready for a very special occasion of the life.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/marriage-articles/indian-marriage-customs-with-suitable-indian-wedding-wears-and-accessories.htm> - Article Side

Angarkh Essentiallyindian - About Author:

Anagrkh is a well-known online shop in India. We have vast a Indian designer bridal wear, amazing Indian wedding dresses, designer lehenga-choli, sherwani & fashionable a Indian ethnic wear.

See our interesting unique Indian designer collection and more in our blogs. Find it here a <http://angarkhessentiallyindian.wordpress.com/>

Article Keywords:

Indian designer dress, Indian designer wear, Indian designer sarees, designer Indian bridal wear, Indian dress, designer bridal wear, Indian suits, Indian salwar kameez,

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!