Micromax' a name which was no where in the list of people a few months ago, in fact people were so unaware of this brand that they used to consider this company as one from those which are providing some of the very cheap quality products, but slowly and steadily with the time and with the hard work of the people working in it, this company has succeeded in achieving a position where it is today considered as one of the most reliable brand when we are talking about the various Indian companies in the market. Not only this, this company is today coming into the market with some of the most latest features in their products in no price at all.

Moving further in our conversation, today we are here so that we can have a short discussion related to one of the latest and most famous product from the company in the market. And to have a better start in our conversation this product from the company is known as Micromax Superfone a50.

This new handset from the company has been recently introduced into the market, and with some of the most demanded features in it, but the one feature which is there on top in the list is known as AISHA, as this is a feature with the help of which you can ask your smart phone to perform various tasks for you. Starting from waking in the morning, picking up calls to many others, with this feature will make your Micromax mobile phone work for you in the manner you want it to perform.

Now moving on to some of the very basic features of the same, the operating system which has been used in this handset is known as android v2.3 gingerbread and to support this operating system the processor which has been used is of 650 MHz. Looking at this we can say that this Micromax mobile phone will never let you down in terms of speed while you are using various applications on the same.

Moving further to the design part, we can say that after having a look at this handset which is known as Micromax Superfone a50 you will never want to live it behind, as this is a handset which is there in the market with one of the most elegant and stylish look ( this will only help you in your styling) for itself. Also its smooth fine and round edges will allow you to show off in style in front of your friends.

Adding into the list of features this handset is coming with a gesture feature in it with the help of which you can easily toggle in different applications you are using.

Storage and battery are two things which are of immense importance when you are out to purchase a new handset, but these are the only two features which are mostly ignored by the various companies who are providing new handsets for our use. But this is not the case with this new Micromax Superfone a50, as the company has provided you with a 1200 mAH battery with it, which provides you long hours of working on it. Also the memory it is coming with can be expanded up to 32 GB with the help of a micro SD card slot.
