A few days ago, news about the release of Motorola RAZR MAXX in the European market was in the limelight, and it was being expected that UK would be one among them. Finally, the assumption proved right, and this smart gadget is being offered by the UK retailer Clove for pre-order. The price tag for the handset has also been revealed. It can be acquired at Â£430.80 or Â£522 with VAT already included. Its original price excluding VAT is Â£359. Along with the gadget, you will get a pair of free Motorola MOTOROKR EQ3 Wired Compact Folding Speakers. In the mid of May, the first deliveries of the smartphone will take place.

The 3300mAh battery is the prominent thing in the Motorola RAZR MAXX for which it has got the popularity. It delivers the mammoth battery backup of 17 hours 40 minutes talk time and 607 hours standby time. On the other hand, the smartphone comprises of a plenty of other high-end features which attract the users a lot. You find an 8 MP snapper in the handset for keeping your memorable moments alive. The camera comes with fantastic features which enhance the quality of pictures, plus allow you to take the images in different situations. Autofocus, LED flash touch-focus, geo-tagging, face detection and image stabilization are the camera features.

It is quite impossible that internet which is an essential feature of the date will be unavailable in the high-end handset like RAZR MAXX. This device also has GPRS as well as Wi-Fi for connecting internet by taking the support of network service providers, or at the Wi-Fi hotspots. A number of internet features prove to be helpful for you in using the World Wide Web, which include Google Search, Maps, Gmail, YouTube, Google Talk and Picasa integration. Entertainment lovers can also enjoy this handset a lot with its media player which supports a plenty of audio & video formats. Document viewer/editor is also available for the working professionals through which they can read and edit their office documents.

Huge amount of audio files, visuals, images, office documents, and more can be kept easily in this handset due to its large memory support. Its internal memory itself can keep a big volume of data in 16 GB storage space. Moreover, it has a microSD card slot in which up to 32 GB space can be included, and you can get $16 + 32 = 48$ GB of total storage space. The handset will be soon in your hands, and you will be able to enjoy all the above said features.
