Tips to Sell iPhone and Blackberry Curves by Abbypatric

When a person is looking for ways to sell his iPhone, the best option available for him these days is to sell iPhone online. The main reason for this is that there are websites offering cash for our old mobile phones and these online sites can offer higher cost for our old phones as compared to a traditional street store since there is no overhead cost involved in online stores. Now, some of you might argue that when we sell old phone to a land store, we will be able to get the cash immediately and in the case of online stores, it will take some times for the cash to reach us. Yes, this is true, but when we sell our iPhone to a reliable store, it will take just some extra days for the cash to reach us and can't we wait for some extra days for the extra cash we are going to receive as compared to the land store?

Rather than sending cash through postal checks, some online stores are making payment for the old phones through PayPal in such a way that we need not wait for even a single day once our phone has been verified by the store. Once the inspection of the device is over, the online company will send us an email notification and then will deposit the funds to our PayPal account. Not only PayPal option, but also check option is offered by these service providers for people who do not have a PayPal account. Under this method it will take four to ten days for the check to reach the postal address specified by the seller during checkout.

Not only iPhone, but also users can sell blackberry curve and any other model mobile phones through these sites. Before proceeding with the sale, the users can get quote for their phone by providing details regarding the model number and make of the phone. Once the seller is satisfied with the quote offered by the company, he can mail his device with the help of USPS priority pre-paid shipping label and once the company has inspected the phone, they will send a mail confirmation regarding the same and will dispatch the payment either to the PayPal account or to the mail address of the owner in the form of check.

In addition to mobile phones, these companies also accept iPads, tablets and smart phones. So, stop worrying how to sell blackberry curve or sell iPhone, get the help of these sites and get good value for your old phone.
