A waistcoat is sleeveless upper-body clothing apparel worn by boys and girls over their dress clothes and under the jacket or blazer making it a part of formal clothing. It is also worn as third piece in gents'™ three-piece formal suit. On special occasions like wedding, proms, and parties, a stylish and fashionable boys'™ waistcoat becomes one of the essentials items in formal wear. It is also worn without blazer as semi formal wear by boys as well as girls. Since wedding is one of the most important events in the lives of men and women, the choice of clothing for this special day is highly important. Boys'™ wedding waistcoats are available in various styles, colours, and fabric; it becomes quite difficult to choose the best one from a wide variety.

Tips to choose boys'™ wedding waistcoat

The things to keep in mind while choosing waistcoat for the big day are summarized below:

Since the wedding is associated with lights and glamour, the fabric of waistcoat should be shiny and glamorous fine material. It can be silk, wool, linen, or a blend of these or other materials. Although a dull fabric gives a graceful look that is suitable official meetings or parties, wedding event doesn't call for this. Shine and glamour is essential requirement of a wedding as this is the day of jubilation.

When it comes to the colour, boys'™ wedding waistcoats are available in variety of colours, popularly in silver, black, grey, brown, golden, beige, mauve, blue, navy blue, and many others. The most popular colour for wedding is black; however, a waistcoat of bright colour under a black blazer looks extremely catchy. Besides this, the style and colour of bride's™ clothing should also be considered while selecting colour of groom's™ waistcoat. If the bride's dress and groom blazer are black it is not advisable to choose grey colour for the waistcoat. In the same way, it should either exactly match, or exactly contrast the predominant colour in the wedding.

There are also different shapes available for neckline, for example, U shape and V shape necklines. You may choose according to prevalent style. The size and style of buttons also contribute in overall look and style of the boys'™ waistcoats. The two common styles of buttons are single row and double row. The single row style is known as single-breasted while the double row style is called double-breasted. You can choose any according to your personal choice matching the blazer's™ style. Besides, an additional style common in boys is leaving the bottom button unfastened. This is highly acceptable, and it also makes this wear more comfortable as the waistcoat doesn't ride up the fabric while seating.

Another important aspect in choosing wedding waistcoat's™ style is the style of waistcoats worn by groomsmen. They should also wear the clothing of same style as that of groom's™ so that the coherence of style can be maintained.

Everyone will appreciate that waistcoat makes the groom look more handsome, and hence should be chosen carefully keeping these suggestions in mind.
