Different types of backpacks! by Manav Rana

Article published on August 8th 2012 | Shopping

A right bag is necessary to carry the important stuff along with you. No other type of bag can overcome the functionality and comfort provided by the backpacks. These easy-to-carry packs are just right to carry your laptop safely or for other outdoor activities. There are different types of backpacks available from which you can choose one as per your requirements. These bags come with comfy straps and based on the presence or absence of frames, they can be classified as body-packs, internal frame backpacks, frameless packs, and external frame backpacks.

Pack frame is basically the design that supports the bag together with distributing the weight across the body in such a way that all the weight is not put alone on the shoulders. These days, most backpacks come with buckle mechanism and zippers along with the shoulder straps to distribute the weight equally across the shoulders, legs, and hips.

Frameless backpacks are the most common types of packs used by almost all of us. These multipurpose bags come with two simple straps. These bags are available in different shapes and sizes so that one can use them as per his or her requirement. The simplest bag comes with only one compartment.

However, many bags come with two to three compartments, multiple outside pockets, and waist straps. These bags are the most lightweight and hence most people have this kind of backpack.

Internal frame backpacks are the ones that come with a plastic or aluminum inner frame that makes the bag even more lightweight. The best part of these bags is the placement of the straps. The straps are attached to the inner part in such a way that it reduces the weight equally across the body and do not allow the bag to shift. These bags fit more closely to the back of the person, hence allowing an easy movement. These bags make the right choice for hiking and other outdoor activities as an inner frame provides more space that help the person carry almost everything required for an outdoor activity.

External frame backpacks are designed for carrying the heavy weight. Most external packs are made of aluminum or other lightweight metallic compounds.

There are some special backpacks that are designed for some special purposes like laptop cases for carrying laptops, school bags for carrying school items, etc. These special purpose bags are really important as without them it would become hard to take the basic stuff with you safely almost anywhere.

Many bag manufacturers produce a fine range of backpacks. These functional bags come in various styles, patterns, and colors to suit the needs of everyone. You can choose Adidas backpacks, Fila backpacks, and other branded sacks to stay stylish even when you travel. Instead of driving to a traditional brick and mortar bag shop, you can shop bags online while sitting back at your home. Many online stores are there that provide the most fashionable range of bags for style conscious men and women. Just find your best fit to make your journeys more enjoyable.
