Fair Isle cardigans and delicate whisky glasses by John Smith

Article published on May 31st 2012 | Shopping

Fair Isle is a small as well as the farthest island of the Shetland Islands situated at Scotland. This tiny island has extremely low population and the main source of income and economy here in this island for the women is knitting the Fair Isle Cardigan. The most unique and beautiful Fair Isle cardigan is specially knitted using three or four bright colours of wool yarn in style of knitting that is well-known all over the world as Fair Isle style. Fair Isle cardigans are very simple to knit and bring out colored patterns on the knitted garment very beautifully. The three or four bold colors that are used bring out the wonderful geometrical patterns on the yoke or the border of the cardigan very attractively and brilliantly.

Now, it is very obvious to refer to any knitting that uses many colored yarn as the Fair Isle Cardigan. The simple fair Isle style uses only single type of stitch; the knit, is very distinct from all other existing styles that use other techniques and stitches. Apart from the very famous Scottish woollen industry that has numerous unique features and styles, the Scotch Whisky is also world-renowned and very famous as one of the best whisky that exists. Connoisseurs of whisky, swear by the Scotch Whisky that has set bench marks in the liquor industry. Where Scotch Whisky reigns the entire world, the Scottish society cannot be lagging behind in the preparation and manufacturing of the wonderfully designed best whisky glass to drink the best whisky from which multiplies the pleasure of enjoying whisky many times. Many glass works in entire Scotland manufacture high quality whisky glasses that make drinking Scotch whisky a wonderful experience not only because of the whisky but also the kind of aura and ambience that is created by the wonderful Scottish whisky glasses.

The whiskey glass manufactured in Scotland has a distinct shape with an unique inward curvature that encourages the drinker to inhale the intoxicating aroma of good whisky before even a drop is sipped by the drinker. The high proportion of lead that is involved in the process of making the special whisky glass makes the glass crystal clear and also makes a tinkling sound with the ice cubes in the whisky glass which is just perfect. This fad of tulip shaped whisky glasses is quite out of proportion because many regular whisky drinkers believe that the best whisky glasses are the plain and simple whisky tumblers. There is no such a thing as a perfect whisky glass since the opinion about whisky glasses differs completely from person to person. While some believe in the very beautiful expensive tulip shaped whisky glass with a very broad base, a bulbous middle and slightly small mouth, there are other drinkers who care more for the whiskey rather than for the whisky glasses in which it is served.
