

Article Side

Help on Selecting Dog Beds by Malcolm Nguyen

Article published on December 18th 2011 | Shopping

Being a dog owner is so much fun and your pet will give you many years of love and companionship. When you have a dog it is important that you get all of the equipment that is needed to look after it correctly. This will mean getting it the right kind of bed to sleep on. If you have not owned a dog before you might need a little help on selecting dog beds so you choose the best type. Here are some things that you will need to think about when it comes to going shopping for a suitable bed for your dog.

You need to make sure that you buy the right size bed for your dog. He or she needs to be comfortable when they are sleeping and this will mean paying attention to the size of bed you buy. You should make sure that you choose a bed that will allow your dog to lay down in it without feeling cramped or as though there is too much space around it. Most of the dog beds that are available come in standard sizes – small, medium and large although it is possible to buy larger sizes for very big dogs.

It is also important to look at the materials that the bed is made out of. If you want to be able to wash the bed choose a plastic bed with a removable cushion or a bed made from washable fabric. These can be easily cleaned and disinfected to ensure that your dog is healthy and well looked after. In addition to this you should pay attention to the base of the bed. If the bed is going to be placed on a laminate or tiled floor it is a good idea to choose one that has a non slip base.

If you have an older dog or one that has problems with its joints you might want to think about buying a bed that has a memory foam mattress. These will help your pet to sleep in comfort as the foam will protect and cushion their joints. Dog beds like these are recommended by vets to owners who have a dog that suffers from joint problems like arthritis as they can help to ease the pain associated with the condition.

You should also make sure that you buy quality dog beds as these will last for much longer. Dogs tend to be quite rough with their beds at times and some will chew them. If this is an issue for you choose a bed that is very durable and you will get more life out of it.

Finally if you are looking for unique dog beds why not think about a designer dog bed? These are made in a variety of interesting styles and a really fun take on the traditional dog beds that you may have encountered. You can easily find these online and they are perfect if you want your dog to feel a million dollars.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/shopping-articles/help-on-selecting-dog-beds.htm> - Article Side

Malcolm Nguyen - About Author:

Give your dog a well earned rest with a comfy dog bed from us. We have quality modern dog beds to please your dogs. Buying your dog supplies cannot be easier than buying from one of Australia's fastest growing dog supplies retailer. Check out great dog beds and memory foam dog beds for your beloved pets.

Article Keywords:

Dog beds, Dog bed, Buy dog beds

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!