Though many people think that only woman can wear pearls, this is not the case. Many men can also add pearl accessories to their garb. At Aloha Pearls, the most popular type of pearl that both men and women wear is called a Tahitian pearl.

These pearls originated in the islands of French Polynesia and have grown tremendously in popularity. Tahitian pearls, though classified as black pearls, come in an array of different tones. Ranging anywhere from black to gray to purple to peacock blue, these pearls are truly unique.

The reason for these special colors lies in the shell of the Black Lipped Oyster, the mollusk that grows Tahitian pearls. If you peer into the shell of one of these oysters, you will see that a rainbow of dark iridescent colors line the shell, creating pearls in all those colors. Another aspect that sets these pearls apart from the rest is the large sizes in which they are grown. Tahitian pearls start growing around 8mm and grow to sizes of up to 18mm at times, which is incredibly large considering that freshwater start at sizes of 4mm and only get to about 14mm. In some occasions, Freshwater pearls do grow larger.

At Aloha Pearls, both men and woman can enjoy the look of pearls. For men, necklaces made of black or brown leather, tied with adjustable slip-knots with carved Tahitian pearl set in the middle are a well-loved product. Woman also enjoy this style of accessory and also purchase this product. Another accessory Aloha Pearls gears towards male are pieces of Tahitian oyster shell, which is carved into a tribal design and strung from different colors of leather.

Other men also enjoy the look of masculine Tahitian pendants and many also wear single stud earrings in their ears. Unique pearl jewelry designs for woman are endless at Aloha Pearls. From Freshwater pearls earrings and pendants to Tahitian rings and pendants. South Sea pearls create beautiful accessories like pearl strands, and beautiful rings. No matter what your personal style, Aloha Pearls has exactly what you are looking for. The reason men and women can both get away with wearing pearls is because they are both classic and edgy, depending on their design. Men and woman alike will love the products at www.alohapearls.com and appreciate the look of these gems.
