Islamic Relief- a Genuine Charity Organization for Muslims by Julia Roger

Article published on August 7th 2012 | Society

Muslims are very generous and humble people when it comes to doing charity for the betterment of the fellow poor Muslims. However, the present socio-political scenario of the world makes it difficult to contribute for any kind of charity. Fear and suspicion dominate the wish of people towards donation. Several charitable organizations have been closed down due to the allegations on them of using the donated amount to fund terrorist activities. This type of news makes people wary of contribution for the noble cause. In such situation, one is advised to do a thorough research about reliable islamic charity organizations. This would ensure that the donations are used for the betterment of poor and suffering Muslims.

Among the various charitable organizations working towards the development of underprivileged Muslims, islamic relief deserves special mention. The organization has its offices in thirty-five countries of the world making it one of the few global charitable organizations for Muslim relief. The Charity Navigator has already give it a four star rating as well, which seals the fact that it is an organization that can be trusted with closed eyes. It accumulates funds for Muslim relief but there is no restriction on the people contributing towards it. In other words, people of any cast, creed and religion can donate.

You will get detailed information about this organization or any other organization of the same kind on the Internet. You need to be a little vigilant while selecting an organization for doing charity. This is because you surely would not want to let you noble deed be used in heinous activities, like terrorism. There is no limit to the amount you can donate, which makes it possible for you to contribute to your heart's content. The more you can donate, the better it is for making the poor Muslims lead a settled life.
