Article Side

PHP Web Development â€" the apple of a web developerâ€™s eye | FrankieMays

Article published on July 31st 2012 | Software

PHP Web Development has been recently creating waves in the web development industry for the whole host of features, functions and advantages it offers while creating dynamic websites. PHP Web development is effortlessly compatible across various operating systems like Linux, Mac OS and Windows and multiple databases like Oracle, MySQL and Apache. Due to these reasons, PHP has become a favourite web programming language for website and web application development. PHP Web development provides users and developers with some very great features of which the major ones are discussed here.

â€¢Cost-efficient: PHP is an open source technology that is available for free to download and start using. Being comparatively inexpensive to use is one of the main factors that make it the best choice for website development. And of course, all this is available with the highest levels of quality.

â€¢Development of creative and interactive websites: PHP Web development effortlessly allows creating very interesting and interactive websites. Dynamic websites like Facebook are based on PHP platform and hence it successfully runs with a lot of interactive features that makes the site much more attractive and user-friendly.

â€¢Extended support across platforms: PHP Web development allows for compatibility across various operating systems, databases and content management systems. Hence, from personal websites to business related ones, PHP programming language works well for every platform with the highest possible speed.

â€¢Provides multi-lingual website development: PHP web development facilitates development of websites in more than one language. This further aids in attracting a larger mass of audience from various parts of the world.

â€¢Easy to learn: PHP is an easy language to learn and start with. Today there are various tutorials available to learn this scripting language and even if a programmer has a knowledge of C and C++, he can easily learn PHP and start working on such projects.

In a nutshell, PHP web development is a breakthrough technology that is absolutely perfect for today's era of business and offering highest levels of cost-effectiveness, performance quality and integrated features for modern times. With continuous advancement in the technology, PHP web development is an ideal choice for development of interesting websites and expanding your presence in the digital world.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/software-articles/php-web-development-the-apple-of-a-web-developer-s-eye.htm - Article Side

FrankieMays - About Author:
Frankie Mays is an experienced PHP programmer working with eSiteWorld and possessing 9 years of extensive experience in a PHP Web development. eSiteWorld is one of India's foremost offshore outsourcing companies providing custom PHP Development services to clients across the world including PHP integration, PHP programming migration, maintenance and support across various industries and business.

Article Keywords:
PHP Development Services, Offshore PHP Development, PHP Application Development, Hire PHP Developer