Delhi Jalandhar Buses -The Guide to Travel to Jalandhar from Delhi by Mark Pincus

Article published on December 15th 2011 | Travel

The city of Jalandhar is named after a demon king of the same name who finds a mention in the Puranas and Mahabharata. According to the legends, Jalandhar was the capital of the kingdom of Lav, son of Shri Rama. According to yet another Upanishad version, the city is said to have derived its name from the lingo term `Jalandharâ€™™ which means area inside the water, i.e. land laying between the two rivers Beas and Satluj.

Jalandhar is located on the intensively irrigated plain between the Beas and Sutlej rivers. The city, which has major road and rail connections, is a market for agricultural products. Manufactures include textiles, leather goods, wood products, and sporting goods. Jalandhar was the capital of Punjab from India's independence (1947) until Chandigarh was built in 1953. It is at a distance of 146 kms from Chandigarh and 350 Kms from Delhi on Delhi-Amritsar Highway. It is surrounded by Ludhiana district in East, Kapurthala in West, Hoshiarpur in North and Ferozepur in South. It is well connected by road and train.

If you are staying at Delhi, nothing can beat the charm of bus travel to Jalandhar. With the change in times though people have changed the way they travel but it still remains a popular option.
