

Article Side

Indian Wildlife Tourism the Sole of Indian Tourism Industry by Rahul Ranjan

Article published on January 6th 2012 | Travel

Different national park of India has contributed a lot in the tourism department. Most of the tourists are wild life lovers and they just spend their holidays in these national park. The experience of these different national park of India are just unforgettable and offers you various lifetime memory.

Ranthambore National Park is one of the magnificent places in order to watch the different activities of tiger. It is located just at a distance of 145 kms from Jaipur in the eastern part of Rajasthan. It is known as the best wild life reserves of India. The beauty of this National park increases with the presence of breathtaking landscapes along with the diverse wildlife. Ranthambore National Park offers you the best opportunity to spot out the famous royal Bengal Tigers which moves fearlessly in this national park. You should make a plan to visit this national park in the month of November to April as these seasons are best to spot the tigers. In these months due to sunshine during the day hours, tigers are found as basking in the warm atmosphere. Not only the tigers are the attraction of this national park. You can also enjoy the company of other animals apart from tigers like Leopards, deer, Striped Hyenas, Nilgai etc.

Another famous national park is Sundarban National Park which is located in the West Bengal. It is the largest Tiger Reserve of India and it got its name Sunderban as it has lots of Mangrove Plants which is known as Sundari. The main attractions of Sunderban National Park are the Tiger, the leopard, Javan Rhinoceros, Swamp, Hog Deer etc. You should make a plan to visit Sunderban especially during the winter season. Though the park remain open from September to March but from December to February you will get the maximum enjoyment in exploring the park as migratory birds are also present in the park.

The oldest national park is the Jim Corbett National Park. This park is famous for its beautiful location, having a wide variety of wild life that too in the foothill of Himalayas. You should visit this park as it is very convenient to visit it frequently.

Like this there is a Kaziranga National Park in India which is known as the pride of North East India. it is rated as the finest national park in the world. It has rhinos in rich abundance. People all around the world visit this national park every year.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/travel-articles/indian-wildlife-tourism-the-sole-of-indian-tourism-industry.htm> - Article Side

Rahul Ranjan - About Author:

xpertravels.com provides you Indian wild life tour packages like Kaziranga National Park, a Ranthambore National Park, sundarban national park and a Corbett National Park.

Article Keywords:

Indian wildlife tour, kaziranga national park, ranthambore national park, sundarban national park, Corbett national park.

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!