Dubai has transformed completely from being the tranquil, sleepy town of exotic coral and gypsum courtyard houses, Bedouin fishermen to being a dream city of high-rises and jetsetters. Today it's a flashy, glossy sun-n-sand city, which offers luxury at its heightened glory and quintessence of exclusivity. Each hotel out there is marked by its distinct style of architecture, ambience and service. This city is progressing rapidly and is becoming one of the most important cities of the world. And of course the Dubai is becoming the shopping hub of Middle East. There is a complete chain of shopping malls, multiplexes, exhibitions and events that run throughout the year.

Next Middle East Travel destination brings you to Qatar. Qatar has a massive variety of good food and drinks to offer. Sea food offered here is consumed on special occasions. A traditional Qatari breakfast comprises of milk, coffee or tea, olives, dates and bread. Some other preferred eatables include conventional food like Balaleet, sweet noodles with cardamom, and cinnamon and are served with a fried egg as a garnish. And Hummus is very popular and Qataris usually eat Michee, which is a similar food item.

If you think you are done with the Qatari flavor, hold on. Prominently food in Qatar consists of fish and meat of spicy type. A popular dish of Qatar is MatchBoush that is a tender meat cooked and served with spices and rice. And in desserts one would love to relish Om Ali. Qatar has world class restaurants serving delicious food and reasonable prices. One can even ask for a Turkish cuisine out here.

And of course your Middle East Travel And Tours would be incomplete without a mention to Saudi Arabia. The culture of Saudi Arabia is rich and its heritage is worth watching. Though Arabic is the official language, but tourists won't find any difficulty since English is widely used for conversation. Ramadan the holy month includes fasting and eating, drinking, cigarette smoking, gum chewing is strictly prohibited. All people eat together and break their fast.
