You can get affordable deals for both days i.e. Tuesday and Wednesday. Although, prices fluctuate frequently and you could be frustrated by the ups and downs of prices, however you can get affordable deals if you are aware. For this, you should always have a close eye on its prices so that you could book it in advance to avoid any kinds of discrepancy.

If you plan your travel in advance and book return tickets also for you along with your family, you can get attractive discount on air tickets. Most of travel agencies provide discounts on booking of return tickets. You should always choose a reputed travel agent for who has made a well reputation in the market over the time as well as they should have been providing services for many years (probably more than 3 years would be ideal). One of the important things you should consider is the hidden charges that are levied by travel agencies. Most of attractive offers are providing by travel service providers with certain terms and conditions but they will not emphasize these terms and conditions in their promo or advertisement. In such scenario, you should clarify all terms and conditions by contact them personally. After getting all terms and conditions and fully satisfaction, you should book your tickets.

You should also check out the official website of airlines about the current prices they have for various destinations. If you find that the prices offered by travel agents are greater than the airlines' prices, you should ask them about it. If they agree to offer you to book your tickets at lesser price, you should do otherwise you can opt for the airlines directly. One of the main advantages of advance booking through travel agents is that they also provide hotel booking at great discounts because they have tie-ups with various hotels to provide the better deal according to customers' specific needs and requirements. You can't get these kinds of hotel deals if you book your ticket through airlines directly. Hence, you should make your plan earlier so that you could save your hard-earned money by booking your tickets in advance.
