

Article Side

Secrets to Saving on Airfare with Points Earned by Andrewsmith

Article published on December 27th 2011 | Travel

Are you a frequent flier who always travels by flight on business commitments to different locations? It must be a huge amount that you cough up every month. So, it is time that you should be aware of various programs that airlines offer to its loyal customers.

To put it simple, airlines offer points to frequent travelers on every flight which can be redeemed later on in different flights. Make sure that you read the t&cs on every flight booking. You will be surprised to see how you can save a considerable amount on your subsequent flights. Different airlines have different plans and reward points for their customers. With the points accrued on a particular airline can be redeemed only on the same airlines, irrespective of the route.

Of course there are intricacies to mull over. People pay taxes and hefty charges are levied on different surcharge heads. So, it is imperative that you consider every pros and cons of booking with a particular airlines or whatever suits you better. It is sheer joy of flying almost free at times with these collected points or extra mile rewards. Airlines have tie ups with different companies and credit card companies offering different sops to customers. For instance, you can earn miles for British Airways award travel booked using American Airline miles. You will have to consider whether you are on a long haul flight or traveling on shorter routes. Even these aspects are taken into consideration while handling out the benefits to fliers.

Not only discounts on air tickets, you can also avail several other benefits from these reward points. Some airlines even offer discounts on car rentals, hotels, holiday packages and restaurants with these points. So, look no further and join such a program with your airlines to reap the future benefits. Certain airlines give you access to airport lounges with these points in specific airports. Imagine relaxing in a five star airport lounge while waiting for your flight. Get a therapeutic spa massage, dine in a swanky cafe and buy some coveted stuff, all within the airport. With discounted prices on everything you do, it is a seamless joy and excitement for you. Check out the different air miles programs of different airlines and act accordingly. Your kids will have a field day with programs that offer access to theme parks. See, it benefits your entire family as well.

Air Miles Canada has more than 100 partners which mean customers can redeem points with these partner outlets. Whether it is travel, entertainment, electronics purchase, gift cards and lot more, consumers can avail the service in any of these allied sectors. You can even shop online with these collected air miles from earlier flights. So, what are you waiting for? Capitalize on your frequent flights and enjoy unlimited benefits.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/travel-articles/secrets-to-saving-on-airfare-with-points-earned.htm> - Article Side

Andrewsmith - About Author:

A. J. Smith is a travel writer for OneTravel and writes articles with special focus on airlines industry, vacations, and road trips, besides sharing tips and nuggets on booking airfares of top airlines such as Air India, a China Airlines .

Article Keywords:

Air India, Air India Flights, China Airlines, Air China

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!