India travel is many things for many people. Some are awed by its vastness as a single country. Others are amazed by the versatility it has to flaunt at every next nook and corner. Common Indians have dreams of getting an opportunity some where in their life to be able to see very state and village of India that carries the signs of ages without any sin of aging at all. One of the best examples of such feature is Goa. With western influence for a great part of its history, Goa is alive with the activity. One can go to Goa and instantly become a part of its life and culture. Goa tour would take to unimaginable simplicity of its hinterland and extravagant lifestyle of modern Goa.

People of Goa seem to have maintaining a low profile in this high profiled tourist destination. Tourists come here for a Goa tour and get blended in the rocking life that is a part of any hyperactive tourist place. Life of villages may seem a bit harder and people in city depend mainly upon tourism and on the travelers that come and go out of the city every time. People who are settled here are basically retired from their past life and chose to live more peacefully near the casual beaches of this beautiful beach city. India travel is made happening by such places.

Beaches of Goa attract tourists like honey attracts bears. Beach sports are quite popular amongst holidaying families and friends. People also find themselves experimenting with water sports like Paragliding, Jet-Skiing, Banana ride, etc for fun. Goa tour would have temples, churches and museums, so be ready for them to come up so that if they are not your things, you won't get bore. If you are on India travel, you must be mentally prepared for some religious spot coming up at every interval of an hour. It would just be your luck if it doesn't come.

There are markets that are quite popular and reasonably priced. People take away many souvenirs for their friends and relatives as a symbol of affection during Goa tour. Flea Market of Anjuna beach is quite famous for that. Also you could very easily find locals ready to guide you to best of the shopping locations. Just do not forget to bargain. It could save you a lot of bucks. India travel can become costly if you tend to believe in whatever the other person has to say!
