UK citizenship entitles you to live in the UK permanently and free movement within the European Union. You can apply for citizenship after being granted indefinite leave to remain. You may also qualify through registration or through the right of abode in the UK. to qualify for uk citizenship, you must have been in the uk for 1 years, be over 18 years of age, be of good character and should have a grasp of the English, Scottish Gaelic or welsh language.

Once your application has been approved you will be invited to a ceremony to undertake an oath and pledge of loyalty. You will then be awarded the certificate of naturalization and once the certificate has been granted, it cannot be withdrawn. Under the law in effect from 1 January 1983, a child born in the UK to a parent who is a British citizen is automatically a British citizen by birth. Only one parent needs to meet this requirement.

You can also acquire citizenship by descent which is for children born outside the UK to a British citizen and it depends on when the child was born. A child born outside UK on or after 1 January 1983 automatically acquires British citizenship by descent if either parent is a British citizen other than by descent at the time of birth. A child adopted by a British citizen only acquires British citizenship automatically if the adoption order is made by the court of law in the United Kingdom, Channel Island, Isle of Man or Falkland Islands on or after 1 January 1983 or in another British overseas territory on or after 21 May 2002.
