The right thing for women is to choose the right prom gown according to their own body shape, when there is a prom upcoming. Women are one of special animals who love to make them beautiful but also in great agony. For example, women reject the delicious food just because they are on a diet or they want to loss fat. How to make the prom dress fit for your body shape rightly is an important issue for women.

At first, we should have a clear idea of the body shapes of women in the world. There are several kinds of shapes, such as the perfect hour-glass shape, petite shape, slim figures, full-figured, busty and apple shaped, or pear figure. But I summarize them to three categories, the hour-glass shape, the petite figure and the busty figure. As for the perfect hour-glass body shape, I have to say that this kind of women is absolutely fortunate in the world. If you are one of the women who have the body shape, you can wear any kind of prom gown in the world. Just help yourself. Whether you wear a long prom dress or just a little back, you will be belle in your prom night.

What I want to talk is about the prom gowns for the women who have petite shape or busty body shape. As for the women who are petite, they maybe envy the women who have a pair of charming breast. This kind of body shape had better wear the some gowns highlighted in the bodice. For example, a bodice full of ruffles can make some effects for women's breast. You can have a try. The piece with a support bodice in one shoulder style, sweetheart neckline and ruffled bodice is really perfect for this kind of petite girls. What's more, the petite women had better choose the short prom dresses to help show off their beautiful petite girls. Of course, a pair of high heels is necessary for women. The high heels can make women look longer than ever.

As for women who are busty, you can highlight your charming cleavage by some prom dresses with strapless sweetheart neckline or the deep V neck. Don't try to hide your breast. It is beautiful absolutely. You had better choose the gown with a pair of tank straps to help support your breast. The deep v neck is really beautiful for women. And you can also add a lovely bowknot on your natural waistline to hide your stomach if you have. Also you can also try the backless prom dresses which can show off your beautiful back, which can really help draw a lot of attention.
